DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

1. Claim 15 (16-22) rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is not clear if claim 15 is a System claim or a Method claim. Claim 15 appears to be System claim, however, in line 4, it recites, "said method comprising:".

Proper correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1- 9, 11-28, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Breitbart et al. (US 6,697,338) in view of Gupta et al. (US 2003/0009699).

Art Unit: 2616

As to claims 1, 15, 23, Breitbart et al ("Breitbart" hereinafter) disclose a method of determining physical connectivity between elements. Each element has one or more interfaces (ports) each of which is physically linked with an interface (port) via physical connections (col. 4, lines 12-21, col. 6, lines 12-16) of another element. Address (MAC address) sets are generated for each interface of the network element corresponding to a given map or list and compared with the received addresses (see Abstract, col. 1, lines 51-62, col. 2, lines 38-50, and col. 3, lines 32-39).

As to claims 3-8, 17-20, 22, 25-27, Breitbart further discloses routers R1.. and subnets 1.. each subnet having plurality of switches s1, s2,.. (figs. 1 and 2), wherein any router or a switch can be a source and any other router or switch can be a destination (see col. 4, lines 38-48). Breitbart also discloses address forwarding tables of the elements incorporating set of MAC addresses accessible, viewed or readable from interfaces (ports) identifying the interconnections between network elements. These interfaces (ports) are compared to addresses in the MAC address table (claim 8) (see Abstract, col. 3, lines 27-43 and col. 4, lines 60 through col. 5, lines 1-14).

As to claims 2, 16 and 24, Breitbart does not specifically disclose a map comprising reference information (claims 2, 16, 24); receiving a listing that identifies other connected devices. However, one of ordinary skill in the art would readily realize that this listing is not different from drivers, loaded in a computer (CPU), associated with all the devices connected to it.

Art Unit: 2616

As to claims 1, 9, 11, 12, 21 and 28, Breitbart also fails to specifically disclose a computer readable preprogram to perform a method of verifying as claimed herein, and of generating a report identifying discrepancies as in claims 1, 9, 11, 12, 21, 28.

Gupta et al. ("Gupta" hereinafter) disclose a computer system comprising memory unit 50, computer program and a processor to carryout instructions for verifying the connectivity of devices in the network (see [0038], [0050], figures 1 and 2). Gupta further discloses generating a report identifying discrepancies and any instances of abnormality (see [0053]) (claims 9, 11, 12, 21, 28)

As to claims 13, 14 and 30, these limitations are already discussed in the rejection of claim 1 above (see figures 1 and 2 of US 6,697,338, and, figure 2 of US 2003/0009699).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time of invention, to be able to incorporate the computer system and programs taught by Gupta and, especially, Signature analysis and Anomaly Detection element 84 (fig. 3) in order to calculate the values for the Internet protocol field range and connectivity range in a heterogeneous IP network comprising one or more subnets sought by Breitbart.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 10 and 29 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 2616

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Wood (US 6,108,702); Orr et al. (5,727,157); Raab et al. (US 5,850,397).
